Cooper Parry Raise £9365 for the Stroke Association

Regional business advisers Cooper Parry have raised £9365 for The Stroke Association.

Cooper Parry raised the funds for the Stroke Association during a year's activities of charitable events including sponsored monthly dress down days, quiz night, 10K runs, sponsored walks, sponsored team triathlon, family fun day, cake sales and charity raffles. They chose the charity after it came top in a firm-wide vote after one of the firm's team members suffered from a stroke.

Chris Radmall, Regional Fundraising Manager at the Stroke Association said, 'We would like to say a huge thank you to everyone at Cooper Parry and their supporters for their year-long efforts. The funds that Cooper Parry have raised for us throughout the year, are vital to our organisation. We appreciate the time and planning that secures successful fundraising events.'

Jeremy Bowler, Chief Executive at Cooper Parry said, "One of our senior colleagues suffered from a stroke last year and he is still recovering. We wanted to show our support and backing the The Stroke Association was the obvious choice."
