Watkins Meegan Names Sean Roddy as Chief Operating Officer

Bethesda, Maryland, December 9, 2009

Bethesda, MD – Watkins Meegan LLC (Watkins Meegan) has named Sean Roddy, CPA, CMA, MBA, as its Chief Operating Officer. In this role, Mr. Roddy will oversee the firm's strategic growth and development, identifying opportunities for organic growth, as well as growth through mergers and acquisitions. He will be responsible for refining and implementing strategic plans to allow the firm to double its size in the next five years.

A former CFO for a $26 billion Fortune 100 company, Mr. Roddy is adept at shaping long-range business vision and direction for organizations using his skills in strategic planning and financial analysis. He is experienced in building top-performing financial and operational teams and has developed excellent communication and presentation skills by working with a variety of financial institutions, private and Wall Street investors, and global business partners.

Mr. Roddy joined Watkins Meegan as a Director in 2007, most recently serving as the firm's Director of Business Development. In that role, he identified new business opportunities, secured service engagements, and established critical alliances within the region's technology and business communities. Additionally, Mr. Roddy oversaw the firm's recent rebranding, including the launch of its new website and the development of electronic marketing and communications platforms to better serve clients and business partners.

Watkins Meegan LLC (Watkins Meegan) offers a wide range of accounting, audit, tax, and business advisory services. We serve a broad market of entrepreneurial and mid-market clients including corporations, closely held businesses, not-for-profits, partnerships, estates, trusts, and high-net worth individuals.
